Real science, hidden in play.

Two 16-bit games for ages 5 to 99. Dodge ocean trash. Fly to Jupiter's icy moon. Every fact in them is real.

Facts stick when you play them.

THE PROBLEM

A fact in a lesson stays a sentence

"Europa hides an ocean." "Plastic hurts sea turtles." A child hears it, and the next day it is gone. Facts feel far away from play.

OUR ANSWER

Make the fact a game moment

In Crab Quest you dodge the trash. In Space X you fly through Europa's ice. Each fact shows up where it makes sense in the story, and nothing in it is invented.

Ages 5 to 99 · short sessions · runs offline on a school computer

Two games, one studio.

Crab Quest

Six chapters to get home

- 6 chapters, 6 ways to play
  Platforming, dodging, collecting, surviving
- Real ocean threats
  Birds, trash and a predator fish
- Ends in a coral sanctuary
  Help a shrimp, then find your family

Space X

Journey to Jupiter

- 4 levels, one mission
  Launch pad, Earth orbit, asteroid belt, Europa
- A fact card after every level
  A story line and one science fact
- A planet fact on every loss
  The Sun and all eight planets, with pictures

Crab Quest: six chapters to get home

Chapter 2 · Beach Run

Chapter 4 · Shrimp Help

Chapter 5 · Predator Chase

1	2	3	4	5	6
Kitchen Escape	Beach Run	Sea Floor Dodging	Shrimp Help	Predator Chase	Home Sweet Home
Jump the counter	Dodge birds, 30 s	Dodge trash, 10 s	Collect 17 algae	Survive 45 s	Reach your family

Space X: the Journey to Jupiter

1 · Launch pad: collect 4 items

2 · Earth orbit: dodge 10 junk

3 · Asteroid belt: shoot 30

4 · Europa: break 12 ice chunks

THE HERO'S MISSION

Fly to Europa, Jupiter's icy moon, and find out if its hidden ocean could hold life.

Lose all 3 hearts and the level restarts. Win level 4 and the Hero reaches Jupiter.

Learning happens at the moment it matters

A fact card after every level

A planet fact on every game over

The win screen on Jupiter

The Sun and all eight planets, each with a picture and a short fact.

The facts live in plain Python lists, so adding a planet or a story line means adding one entry.

One simple idea: a mode switch

INPUT

Keyboard · mouse

arrows, Space, P, R, F and on-screen buttons

PYGAME ZERO

draw · update

the only hooks in the main file

ONE VARIABLE

game mode

says which screen is showing

MODULES

screens · levels

each one owns its drawing and rules

FILES

images · music · data

facts and targets in plain lists

CRAB QUEST

START_SCREEN → LEVEL_SELECT → LEVEL1 … LEVEL6

One self-contained module per chapter, with its own sprites, platforms and reset().

SPACE X

TITLE → PLAYING → FACT_CARD → GAME_OVER → WIN

Each level decides when it is cleared. The main file only switches modes.
